COMMENTS ON EXAMINER'S STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

COMMISSIONER FOR PATENTS
ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA 22313

SIR:

The Notice of Allowance mailed December 29, 2004 contains an Examiner's Statement of Reasons for Allowance. Applicant believes that statement is not entirely accurate, and therefore Applicant provides the following Comments on the Examiner's Statement of Reasons for Allowance.

The Examiner's Statement of Reasons for Allowance on page 4 of the Notice of Allowability mailed December 29, 2004, states that

The prior art does not teach or suggest a system, method or computer data signal embedded in a carrier wave for selecting factors for enhancing a target person's ability to achieve desired work results by selecting factors based upon a correlation coefficient that is calculated by normalizing a covariance value comparing work done by an individual against work done in a predetermined standard. The normalization is performed by forming said covariance as a function of work done and an evaluation value numerically representing the response to a plurality of questions asked of a target person, then dividing said function by one standard deviation value of the work done. This normalized value is then used to select those factors representing a target person's work characteristics. Those characteristics that exceed values known to represent successful abilities in achieving enhanced productivity are reported by the system. These limitations are shown in Claims 1-6, 8, 10-13, 15, 17-20, 22, 24, 26 and 28-31.

However, this statement appears to be improper at least because the independent claims include terminology that is different than the quoted terminology, and which may be interpreted as having a different scope. For example, the Examiner's Statement refers to "calculated by normalizing a covariance," but normalizing a covariance is not recited in the claims.

Respectfully submitted,
